COMMENTARY

Lasts weeks close ended up with a consolidation of levels after a fortnight of losses and the market continued down that path this week, even if slightly erratically. The Northern region indicator lost 2 cents on Tuesdays opening and a further 1 cent on Wednesdays close however the headline indicators can mask movements in individual micron indicators. The best results this week were concentrated between the 19.5 to 20 micron Merino fleece types, resulting in 25 to 40 cent rises. The Crossbred sector (that has been a standout performer over the past 12 months) gave back some of its more recent gains, essentially holding back the headline market indicators from being reported dearer for the week. Lower vegetable matter, higher strength, Merino types was what the market was chasing and some of these sold to levels far in excess of the quote. When looked at in US dollars the market took a more positive lift of 13 cents. 27,307 bales were sold nationally for the week and with stability in prices returning the passed in rate was considerably lower at 5.7%. Major buyers included Techwool, PJ Morris and Endeavour. With the Western region not conducting a sale next week the national offering falls to just 21,600 bales. Early estimates for the following week indicate around 25,000 bales will be on offer in what will be the final sale before the annual three week mid-year recess.
